Resolution Urging the Federal Communications Commission to Use Its Authority to Protect Consumers from Mobile Device Bill Shock

WHEREAS, The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) recently released the results of its independently conducted national study of 3,005 American consumers regarding bill shock and Early Termination Fees (ETFs); and

WHEREAS, The survey results showed that 80% of American adults have a personal cell phone, and 17% of those, or approximately 30 million Americans, have at one time experienced bill shock, or their cell phone bill increased suddenly from one month to the next, even though they had not changed their calling or texting plans; and

WHEREAS, Eighty-four percent (84%) said their cell phone company did not contact them when they were about to exceed their allowed minutes, text messages, or data downloads, and 88% said their cell phone company did not contact them after their bill suddenly increased; and

WHEREAS, Wireless phone screens provide basic information such as time, date, battery power, number of emails and voice mails; and

WHEREAS, Wireless phones depict icons that can be programmed to provide detailed information, and

WHEREAS, Consumers could have prompt and easily accessible usage information and avoid over-usage if all wireless phone screens displayed minutes used and remaining and/or a “Usage” icon that provides all account information including usage allowed, used and available, billing date, costs for overages for all services; and

WHEREAS, The FCC has reportedly received hundreds of complaints about unexpectedly outrageous cell phone bills ranging from hundreds to thousands of dollars; and

WHEREAS, Some wireless carriers provide alerts and other means to curtail overages, primarily to customers with smart phones; and

WHEREAS, The National Association of Regulatory Utility Commissioners (NARUC) has consistently supported and encouraged full disclosure to consumers; now, therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Board of Directors of the National Association of Regulatory Utility Commissioners, convened at its 2010 Summer Committee Meetings in Sacramento, California, urges all wireless carriers with the technical ability to provide usage alerts, icons and/or screen notices on mobile devices, or other alerts to voice, text, and data consumers in the United States
